

What is ND Jump$tart?

Established late in 2006, North Dakota Jump$tart is a nonprofit alliance whose main goal is to help North Dakotans develop the fundamental knowledge necessary to make important decisions that affect their financial health, their families and their futures.

North Dakota Jump$tart is an umbrella organization that ties together representatives from government, education, the financial sector, corporations, nonprofits and many others who are interested in empowering North Dakotans of all ages with a higher level of financial knowledge. We are a “toolbox” of people and resources, a one-stop shop for financial literacy!

We educate the public through speaking engagements and workshops, provide information and materials, and collaborate with public and private organizations and law makers on various projects throughout the state.

Whether you're looking for ways to develop money smarts at home, in your classroom, organization or business, the North Dakota Jump$tart Coalition has the tools and connections you need to make it happen.
